To Address Congress, Nation Today At 1 P. M.

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) -President Truman will address a joint session of Congress tomorrow -and the nation-in a policy statement which may set far-reaching new standards for American diplomacy around the world.

The issue is: What the United States should do to stem the tide of Communism abroad. The President's speech, starting at 1 p. m. (E. S. T.), will be broadcast by the major networks and also televised. Described in advance by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) as transcending party politics in importance, the chief executive's talk is expected to

On Capital Hill, the general belief was that Mr. Truman will recommend a loan of $250,000,000 for Greece and $150,000,000 for Turkey both as a means of bolstering their home economics and indirectly as a barrier against the westward surge of Communism.

Republicans Make As Much Speed As Any New Congress

Senator Taft has a point when he says there are Democrats in Congress who wouldn't be above "deliberate attempts" to stall Republican legislation. And there are Republicans in the country who are disappointed because Congress, in the first two months of GOP control, has not repealed the entire New Deal, reduced taxes, "put labor in its place," and done various other things that over-exuberant party campaigners promised last Fall.

But the Republican Congress has done about as much law-making as any new Congress ever did at this stage. And its start was necessarily slow because It had to go through a complete reorganization, under the LaFollette-Monroney Act, before it could get down to business. It deserves praise, rather than criticism, for taking time to explore the difficult and complex labor problem before enacting new legislation in that field. It needs more information than it yet has had time to gather before it safely can cut taxes.

Efforts, it might be said, to trim the budget, have been too speedy, if anything, rather than too deliberate. The country wants and expects economy in Government, but we don't believe there is popular demand for the sort of job that would be done by surgeons operating in the dark and without careful diagnosis to guide their scapels.

There are those who think Republicans, and not Democrats, are responsible for some "delaying" tactics because of the long hearings on the David E. Lilienthal nomination for chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. It is true a Republican-controlled Senate committee's hearings on that nomination have been in progress since January 25, but no fault should be found with those who endeavored to sift carefully the charges Mr. Lilienthal was a communist, had communistic leanings or was a former fellow traveler, because the position for which he has been nominated is one of the most important insofar as our national security is concerned.

The fact must not be lost sight of that a Democrat -Sen. McKellar of Tennessee-wanted to stall, and the Republican committee majority, rightly or wrongly, stretched "senatorial courtesy" to the limit to let Mr. McKellar produce a flood of evidence against Lilienthal in the hope a clear picture could be secured. to 1 to recommend Lilienthal's confirmation by the Senate. Of course, it is nonsense to say the Lilienthal hearing has been held to the exclusion of all else. Much preliminary work has been done that will, without question, be climaxed by greater economy, correction of unfair labor legislation and reduced tax

All at once the nation has discovered its school teachers are underpaid. Only yesterday it was saying what a snap they had working five days a week, nine months of the year.

President Truman Should Put His Cards On The Table

President Truman's statement this afternoon to Congress on the Greek crisis should be one of candor. It is hoped he will not neglect to take the American people fully and frankly into his confidence. The situation obviously involves a crucial decision for this country. It concerns much more than temporary relief for Greece. The public is entitled to know its facts and its implications. And the public must know, we insist, if Mr. Truman wants strong, bi-partisan congressional support for whatever steps he is about

According to some Washington observers, the problem is this: If the Russians should take over in Greece when the British pull out, the Soviet Union would become dominant in the Mediterranean. Turkey would be next to fall. Then there would be nothing to prevent the Red tidal wave from engulfing Italy, France, Spain and Portugal in one direction, and Egypt, Palestine, Suez, Saudi Arebia, Iraq and Iran in the other. To prevent this, the United States is invited to become a Mediterranean power by assuming responsibility for outposts the British Empire no longer can defend.

If the real issue is not Greece, but Russia, as the above analysis would indicate, then let us be frank and face up to it with courage. But let us have the truth. Mr. President, all at once, today.

We also should be enlightened on the relationship between the Greek situation and the 40-year alliance Secretary Marshall will seek at Moscow. We are set to wondering if this is another "final" attempt to do business with Stalin. Mr. Marshall says that if an agreement can be reached with Russia "it will clear away many existing difficulties and permit a more objective approach to the others." It could do the

But our anxiety for an understanding with Moscow should not blind us to the fact that previous agreements with the Kremlin have been binding on our side only. The Greek problem has been dumped into our lap as the result of a bad deal we made with the Soviets at Yalta when we consented to a division of the world into rival spheres of influence. Concessions to the Russians are like paying blackmail. The more we give, the more they demand.

So, on both the Greek situation and the Moscow negotiations it is vitally important that American public opinion should be accurately and completely informed. Make it so, Mr. President.

There are still 10.000,000 hunters and an equal number of horses in the United States, despite those mistaken for deer during the last season.

ARENTS are often thrilled at their offspring's first tooth, but the tot is too young to be when the boy or girl begins to lose his baby set. Each one is worth a penny, nickel, or dime when the fairly collects them; besides, it means "growing up." Most youngs-ters derive pleasure from wriggling them back and forth. Some beg that they be removed but are often afraid to submit to the procedure.

At the age of 6 to 8 months, the ivories being to erupt. Teething, or dentition, may be associated with signs of discomfort. Many have no difficulty; others seem to be more hungry than usual and are inclined to bite at anything as if they were making an attempt to aid the pro-

An X-ray of the mouth of a 1 or 2 month old child reveals that all of his teeth are present but they are not visible because of the overlying gums. The picture looks like a scrambled mess because the permanent as well as the temporary sets are all there. In the course of development, the baby variety will push up first. The others rearrange themselves below the surface and await their turn. As a rule, the first six appear by age 1 year. At a year and a half there are 12; at 2, 16; and by 2½, all 20 are accounted for.

There are still people who blame teething for every fretful moment, fever, rash, convulsion, or illness which happens to develop during this period. The mother, grandmother, or aunt-on seeing swollen gums — promptly diagnoses the baby's distress as "cutting a tooth." In this way, now and then a serious malady is neglected. Another common misconception is that dentition is responsible for drooling, which is noticed during the third month. Actually, the salivary glands mature at this time and begin to pour forth

Thirty years ago it was not unusual to have the youngster's gums lanced so that the tooth could emerge more easily. Today the small fry can do better by himself, if allowed to chew on a rubber ring or food substance which is large enough not to be swallowed. Nipples or pacifiers are not advised because they rarely stimulate chewing and may induce bad mouth habits and

By the time the child has reached his sixth year, the roots of the milk teeth absorb but the crown portions remain. They are held rather insecurely by the soft tissues and be-come loosened before long. By ma-nipulation, the tops can be flipped out. It might be well to add that they should not be forced inward as they may pop out suddenly and be swallowed or inhaled.

The four first molars usually erupt about the sixth year; the eight incisors between the seventh and eighth year; the eight bicuspids may be expected around 9 or 10; the four canines between 12 and 14 years; and the four second molars at age 12 to 15. The third molars ' (wisdom) can come out between the ages of 16 and 90; in some, they never make their debut.

REPLY No. Tuberculosis can invade almost any structure altho it perhaps is more partial to the lungs than any other area. Since health authorities have minimized the danger of infection thru tuberculin testing of cows and patuerizing milk, bone and joint tuberculosis is less common than in the past. ## It Says Here --- Tions

Several leading senators have in-troduced a resolution in Congress calling for a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18. With teen-agers voting many changes are likely to sweep the country. Political candidates will probably start coming out with slo-gans like this, "Two hot rods in every garage.

And if the bobble soxers have their way Sinatra will be president, Perry Como will be vice-president. Van Johnson will be in charge of post office, and Andy Russell will be special ambassador to find out how things are in Glocca Morra.

Congress will be changed quite a to do away with the speaker in the House, and put in a crooner.

There is also a possility that the White House will be shifted to the Palladium. Of course, if the trend continues, they will probably have to invent new voting machines. When you pull down the lever, pablum will squirt out. Politicians will be hiring themselves out as baby sitters. That way they can get first crack at the new voters. And probably before long the Lone Ranger will be giving election returns.

All of which is giving the hospitals plenty of trouble. A lot of babies are starting to throw their diapers into the ring.

United Nations, Not United States, Should Bail Out Greece; U. S. Will Get Continuing Headaches If We Aid Greco-British; U. N. Equipped to Handle It

- Says DREW PEARSON -

WASHINGTON, March 11 - The roblem of Greece boils down to the following alternatives:

1. Either we throw good money after bad and let the British continue to bungle Greece nearer the brink of civil war and chaos.

2. Or we use our influence to have the United Nations, with its world bank, stabilization fund, and world lice force put Greece back on its

3. Or we wipe our hands clean of Greece altogether, in which case Greece goes Russian-communst. onists are dead opposed to a Soviet-dominated Greece bottling up the eastern end of the Meditermean with its Arabian oil now used by the U.S. Navy, the third alternative probably can be ruled out. Chances are strong that we will do something to help Greece.

The chances are also strong that we will follow the first al-ternative, and let a British-pup-pet government continue to bungle. Politically, both for Con-gress and for Truman, this is the easiest way out. Further-more, it is virtually what we have been doing already.

Actually, it makes little difference whether U. S. cash is spent by the British or a British-puppet govern-ment, or by a new coalition government. As long as British troops dominate Greece the result is likely to be the same; continued turmoilwhich plays right into the hands of Soviet agents.

As set forth in this column po by point last week, the British labor government is now paying for Winston Churchill's policy—a policy based on Kings, bluster, praise-making—and lend-lease tanks. Churchill's errors cannot be undone overnight. It will take a surgical

Looking for the remedy, history shows that one of the very successful reconstruction jobs performed by the old League of Nations was in Greek Macedonia where the troublemaking Turkish population was removed, and where Greeks were taken from Turkish Anatolia and resettled in Macedonia. Previously there had been constant friction between the two countries. After the League performed this surgical operation, Greece and Turkey became

Today the old League of Nations, ble and inefficient, is gone. Its lace has been taken by a new United ations on which millions of people pin their hopes for a future warless world. And the big question now is: Will we circumvent the United Nations until it becomes weak and vitiated, or will we let it perform the peace-paving jobs for which it was formed and constituted?

U. N. Equipment Today Greece needs money. The United Nations, in turn, has a world bank with the huge amount of $9,-000,000,000 gathering dust in its treasury. The bank was established for the purpose of helping situations where the security of the world was in the balance-situations similar to Greece. Greece also needs currency stabilization. The U. N. has a huge stabilpurpose of stabilizing foreign cur-Greece also needs for the moment a certain amount of police protection. Again, the U. N. has its joint military staffs, its Security Council, its blueprint for an international police force. The Sol Blooms and others who believe in paying lip-ser-vice to the United Nations but not relying on it claim that Russia would be able to sabotage a United Nations administration of Geece. Unquestionably, Russia would try. However, General MacArthur has shown that the veto power works both ways and that where Anglo-American forces have the upper hand, the veto keeps the Russians in their place. The Soviet is represented on MacArthur's governing council in Japan, but he was first on the Japanese scene and he runs e Japanese show. The same thing can be engineeered in Greece.

Lesson From Latin America One of the great lessons learned from our Pan-American relations the importance of teamwork. Prior to the good-neighbor policy we worked as an individual nation. We landed troops in Haiti, Nicaragua, and the Dominican Republic We banged Mexico over the head with diplomatic threats and mobilized troops on her border. Result: All Latin America disliked us.

When Sumner Welles sold Roose-velt the idea of being a good neighbor, of sharing responsibility. So when trouble arose in the western hemisphere, the Pan-American nations solved it as a team. Result: Fewer mistakes were made and when they were made Uncle Sam didn't get all the blame.

The British empire, hitherto, has operated on a unit basis. It didn't worry about teamwork. Result: It is hurriedly liquidating parts of the pire and reaping bitter criticism in Palestine and Greece. Further result: The United States is asked to share the financial responsibilities -and the headaches-in one of those countries without having too much to say about the things that cause the headaches.

If we become the bankers for British headaches, the pain and the blame can extend to Turkey, Italy, North Africa, and all over the world. That's why we should take a leaf from the Pan-American good-neighbor book and let the United Nations get busy in Greece before it is too late.

She had heard around the pools that he had found himself a job selling stock for one of those brokerage houses which hired athletes with good contacts. Later, there was a rumor he'd gotten into trouble peddling stock in a little corporation that wasn't there. The last she and cakes as a lifeguard and sometime swimming instructor.

Supreme Court Shows By Vote Labor Act Needs Clarification

By DAVID LAWRENCE -

WASHINGTON, March 11-The Supreme Court of the United States by 5-to-4 opinions on labor matters is performing a service of transcendent significance. For the high court is emphasizing quite forcibly and unequivocally that the Wagner Labor Relations Act, for example, is by no means the clear and perfect piece of law-writing which its champions have so steadfastly maintained.

Ever since 1935 when Congress passed the Wagner Act, the labor union chieftains and the "left wing" have insisted that the act was sacrosanct and that anybody who so much as suggested the slightest amendment was a vicious enemy of labor, a reactionary, a fascist and

But the Supreme Court has revealed the ambiguous phrases of the Wagner Act to be so confusing that the entire busines sand labor community does not know today what the simple word "employee" means.

A majority of the court says that an employee can be two things-he can act in the interests of the employer if he is a foreman or supervisor, and he can act in his own supervisors to negotiate for his own pay and working conditions. Organised Foremen's Position interest if he combines with other

Strangely enough, if a foreman or supervisor happens to drop a casual remark disparaging unionzation and other employees overhear it, the employer can be charg-ed with an unfair labor practice committed by the tactless foremen. Likewise, while an employer may expect a foreman to inspect the work of employees under his eye and recommend discharges, nevertheless that same foreman, if affiliated with a CIO or AFL union, can be penalized as anti-union by a union. Indeed management argues that fear of such punitive action often guides foremen in overlooking laxity among employees.

The case just decided by the Supreme Court involved an independent union, and it will be interesting to see what the high court will do when a case arises in which a foremen's union is part and parcel of an industrial union dominated by the CIO.

Up to now the National Labor Relations Board has struggled conscientiously with the former problem. At one time, a majority of the board held that foremen could be unionized only if they belonged to a union not affiliated with the rank-and-file unions. At another time, the board members held that foremen had an unqualified right to hoosing whether or not affiliated with other unions.

As usual with the National Labor Relations Board, the decisions and rulings change every time a President appoints different persons to the board vacancies. The natural result is that labor-management relations are in a state of confusion and that the so-called Magna Charta of labor-the Wagner Act-is about as clear as a lighthouse on a foggy day. When, however, industry tries in all candor to get amendments to the Act, union labor cries out against such steps and prefers to let a vacillating board and an ambiguous statute increase rather than diminish the chances of making a labor peace through orderly processes of law. The chief difficulty, of course, is that New Dealism has its roots in nearly every board and agency and, until a government of laws is substituted for a government of men. there will be economic disturbances and consequent damage to the public interest.

New Deal Ideology The New Deal concept or ideology calls for vaguely written laws with blanket powers delegated to boards or agencies. This provides for the naximum of political pressure and the minimum of justice. Instead of prescribing legislative standards for the guidance of boards and agencies -which a great Supreme Court laid down as essential in unanimously rejecting the NRA in 1935-the Congress has gone ahead to pass laws which are left to the discretion of boards and agencies to interpret. Their rules are really laws. Congress abdicated years ago to the labor board when it refused to amend the Wagner Act.

It is not surprising that the labor board, in its recent testimony. knocked down virtually every important suggestion to amend the Act and pleaded that the board's powers be left untouched, so it could continue its dictatorial control over management-labor relations in

The absurdity of the decision rendered by the Supreme Court in holding that foremen are not acting for employers is certainly revealed the penetrating dissent of Justice Douglas, who declares that, if foremen can organize, then vicepresident and general managers can do so-in fact, that all presidents can band together as against all stockholders.

This is a logical appraisal and it erves to delineate the far-reaching effect of collectivist doctrine as embodied in the Wagner Act. For what the Wagner Act does is to set up a system of government in which everybody can organize against ev-

What is needed desperately is clarification. Since the Supreme Court, by vote of 5-to-4, confesses that nobody really know difference between an "employer and "employee" is, maybe Congress will take a hand after 12 years and really write labor legislation that even the Supreme Court can understand.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

THE Board of Standards and Appeals of the State of New York is permitted by law to protect the language of trade unionism from imitation. In other words, such an organization as the Choral Union or a Credit Union might, were they new, come smack up against this delegation of protection of words to William H. Roberts, Raymond M. Fisher and H. Myron Lewis, the bureaucrats in charge of this agency. Now, along came the Tool Owners Union, a Delaware corporation, consisting of American citizens of thrift and competence who organized themseves to protect the interests of those who own stock in American industry, that is, those who own the tools of production because they put up the money to buy them. So the Board of Standards and Appeals decided whether the purposes of the Tool Owners Union are "in all respects consistent with public policy and the Labor Law of the State of

New York."

Really they set out to stop these gentlemen, who put their money in America's future, from using the word "union." Had they used the word "Association," "Society." "Federation," or half a dozen cynonyms, they would not have interfered with the American Federation of Labor and the C.I.O.'s monopoly over the word, union. The Board entered upon a prolonged. pedestrian, and vicious harangue designed to destroy this organization of Americans, to limit their usefulness, to suppress freedom of speech and of the press and the right of petition and of assembly. It is the most amazing document I have ever read emanating from a public office and you may be certain that the words 'Fascistic' and "Democracy" appear in the ruling, because too often the socalled liberal mind, when it cannot think of anything, shouts "Fascistic" and "Democracy." This decision was handed down on February 27, 1947. But on October 25, 1946, the advertising magazine "Tide," published an article attack-time it happened, she gave Mrs. Coleman a kind of funny look. When it happened again, my little champion started playing over her

Half an hour later, it was 7-6. Eleanor's favor, and set point coming up. Mrs. Coleman was serving. She leaned on it. Eleanor barely managed to get it back. Myro moved in to murder it. I guess she was too anxious. The ball flicked the clay a good six inches past the white line on our side.

"Too bad," said Eleanor, and started walking off the court. "That was in," insisted Mrs. Coleman. "I saw it hit in." In a quiet voice, Eleanor said,

I thought I saw it bounce out." Mrs. Coleman turned to Pretty Boy Morton. "You were near it," she said. "Was it in or out?" I started to say something, then kept my mouth shut. I knew what was riding on his answer. The fellow who had won a third in the Olympics looked over at the girl whose hundred-yard backstroke record is still on the books. There was nothing undecided about his voice when he said, "It was out-out by a mile." I knew my twenty bucks were out the window. But, as I was saying a few hundred words back, I didn't much care.

ing the Tool Owners Union. The general purport of the "Tide" article is to lead to an investigation by a Congressional Committee and to place a doubt as to the Union's probity by such subtlety as this: . .no one knows whether the outfit resembles the Liberty League the lunatic fringe, or something in between. Nor has the group been around long enough yet to receive any attention from any congressional committee. . . Another report appeared during September, 1946, published by "The Frances Sweeney Committee, affiliated with the Friends of Democracy. Inc.," Boston, Massachusetts. This sets out to show that the Tool Owners Union is anti-labor. It says: . . It is a rare man who reaches these upper income tax brackets and retains any sympathy for the wage-earner. On these counts alone we could conclude that Tool Owners. Union is no friend of labor." In a concluding paragraph, this "Tool Owners Union by its very nature is not a movement which will benefit or attract most people who fit into the category of wage-earners. It excludes those who are not American citizens, those who are elected or appointed federal and state officials, officers and employees of 'any organization hostile to the purpose of Tool Owners Union.' By this process of elimination, few people are left to join the 'union.'.

There aren't many 'coupon elippers' in America who are crusaders. Be it remembered that this Tool Owners Union is an association of Americans who have savings which they have invested in American industry. Since when is it a crime for Americans to save the money they earn and to invest their money in American industry? How was the industry of this country created and developed except by the investment of private savings? Apparently, for such citizens to organize to protect their savings is a crime. What and who makes it so? When these articles are read at the same time as the Decision of the Board of Standards and Appeals, there is a similarity of view and attitude which is astonishing The principal tone of it all is that there must be something wrong for people who saved their money to organize to protect their savings. The logic of their argument would be correct in Soviet Russia; it is silly in the United States. (Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

it is a fact, nevertheless.

That doesn't mean, however, that it is an easy matter to overcome and go home, listen to the has plenty of friends and lots of good times, It isn't easy, but it ceffinitely can be done, if the person concerned cares enough to make the effort required.

Here is an unhappy girl faced with the problem of desperate loneliness who is anxious to know how she can solve it. Her letter reads:

And then she ends, pathetically, "Please try, and tell me what to do to be happy."

There are a lot of things that one needs to know about such a girl before it is possible to give satisfactory advice. If she would

Then they might go to the local paper of their town and ask if the editor would put a little piece in the paper saying that such a club is being started and perhaps there are some other teen-age girls in town who would like to join. This would undoubtedly get results if it is true, as this girl says, that no teen-age organization exists in her locality.

That is one suggestion for a girl

Usually, or almost always, there is a YWCA nearby, where any girl can go and find different types of clubs she might join. I suggest that this particular girl find out where her nearest YWCA is and then go to see one of the workers there and tell her just what she has written me. I know that any of these workers would take an interest in such a problem and do whatever she could to help solve

Crowe Advocates Fish Hatchery At Bottle Run

The Western Maryland Wildlife Pederation was urged by Fred Crowe, Prostburg, president of the Allegany and Garrett Sportsmen's Association, to oppose the bill sponsored by State Senator Fraley of Garrett County which would prevent the state from acquiring any more ground in Garrett county.

Crowe pointed out that Garrett County receives five per cent of all revenue derived from ground now controlled by the State Game Commission in addition to revenue obtained from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses. The speaker also asked the Federation to oppose the proposed 15-day squirrel season asked by the State Game Commission Crowe said he favors abolishing the late season in favor of the present

Crowe also advocated the estabfishment of a hatchery at Bottle Run, near Cumberland, He said Allegany county fishermen spent $13,-954.13 for fishing licenses and received 13.800 legal trout last year and pointed out that counties with less revenue from license sales have at times received more legal trout

The speaker reported that the Bear Creek hatchery in Garrett -County produced 9,000 trout in 1946 but added "in my opinion, it should produce 30,000 annually". He stated that trout should be stocked some time prior to the fishing season, so anglers' catches wouldn't be of the "tame variety"

According to Crowe the State Game Commission last year spent only $51,000 for the purchase of game for restocking. He said that the commission still has a $197,000 surplus and the western part of the state should receive more game and fish through the fund.

Crowe declared that it hunting and fishing were to continue, a close and cooperative program must be worked out by the Game Commission and sportsmen of the state.

175% FREIGHT RATE INCREASE INCREASE IN FREIGHT RATES 55% INCREASED COSTS 985 MILLION PER YEAR INCREASE IN WAGES 1 BILLION 565 MILLION

Why freight rates are going up...

Since 1939, railroad employes have had three general pay raises totaling 52 6/10%. and the prices of fuel, materials and supplies have risen 616/10%.

'90 MILLION

But when the war ended in 1945, the railroads were still hauling freight at rates no higher, and in some cases lower, than when the war began.

Without increased revenues, railroads could not meet these costs and also provide improvements in equipment and facilities—improvements that are essential for the low-cost freight and passenger services which are necessary to America's high standard of living.

Under these circumstances—and almost a year after the last major wage increase -the Interstate Commerce Commission recently approved an average increase in freight rates of 17 6/10%.

Of all the price increases in America today, few have been so little and so late as that in the price of railroad transportation.

How important are healthy railroads to a prosperous country?

Only when the railroads are financially healthy can they provide the new equipment, improved road beds, and better terminal facilities needed for still better service to you.

The defense of the nation depends upon the continuance of the efficient transportation which served the nation so well in the last war.

The railroads are among the largest employers of labor. They buy over 100,000 different products. They pay big taxes—taxes which are spent not only for public schools, public health, and police and fire protection, but even for highways, airways, airports and inland waterways.

Railroads are America's lifeline—keeping goods flowing among the 48 states day and night in all weather.

They can continue to do this only if there is a reasonable balance between income and outgo. Like yourself, the railroads must make ends meet!

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk with you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

A MAN OF GOD All during Brotherhood Week I was thinking of him and of the strange ways in which love wipes away our man-made barriers. He was an odd, foreign little person in that lusty, brawling frontier town where I was born - Benicia, California. Small, dark and bent he was, slipping on his obscure errands between the surging crowds of gamblers and miners and assorted crooks who pounded along our high board

He had come as a substitute for the minister in our Congregational church which, by its creed, admitted ordained preachers of all denominations to its pulpit, and had been retained because of some strange appeal which none of us guite understood. As I look back on it now I realize he must have led a rather miserable life during the time he was with us. He was so frail, needing special care and food, and we were all poor but a husky lot, but he never complained.

There was no high school in the town and the youngsters were running wild like a pack of young wolves. He organized a school and from some unknown source found the money to pay another instruc-Have I said he was a very learned man? He was. He spoke something like 12 languages. But since every language on earth from Choctaw to Kanaka filled our streets, no one gave him much credit for his accomplishments. He did not need credit. He simply went ahead and did the things which he saw were needed. Presently we found ourselves neatly arranged in school classes and really liking it! How he found the strength to teach daily as well as continue all his ministerial duties I cannot understand. But he did, And his teaching went so much further than book learning.

I have mentioned that we were a wild lot of young hoodlums. I Girl I did not sob quietly or sulk filing in, up from the docks and if affronted or turn the other down from the docks and

There He was a Russian Jew and his and someone had spread the horrifying rumor that he was seen play-ing cards with a hopelessly sick little child on a Sunday afternoon His very body seemed to burn with the flame within him as he stood up and admitted the charge to his congregation and told how Christ had also met such petty scandalmongers when he dared to gather the children into his arms. One did not meet up with sentiment often in those rough days but he touched us as we had never been touched before and I remember wondering if Christ would be like that if He came again, if Christ would not preach just such tolerance and tenderness. For never did a man more love the Christ or more truly fol-

Fisher Is Whole Show For Visitors

Jack "Moons" Stotler's basket in the final 10 seconds of play gave the LaSalle Explorers a perfect ending to their 1946-47 cage season with a thrilling 31-30 victory over the Bed-ford Bisons before 350 spectators last night in the SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium

The crafty Explorer forward took a rebound off the backboard with 10 seconds remaining in the game and calmly shoved the ball back through the hoop to send the Bisons home with their eighth defeat in 23 starts this season, and their second in the three-game series with LaSalle

Bedford jumped off to an early 5-0 lead which forced the Explorers to call a time out and organize their team. LaSalle came back strong scoring seven consecutive points to go ahead 7-5.
